

I firmly believe that the Do Not Call List should remain in effect as is. Since signing up on the Do Not Call List the number of unwanted and annoying phone calls, by telephone solicitors, has decreased tremendously. I find it an infringement of my privacy rights, in my own home, and through a telephone service that I pay for, to be annoyed at home by telephone solicitors trying to sell me something I don't want and they won't take no for an answer.